RESPIRI RECEIVES STRONG INTEREST FROM ASIA AS AIR POLLUTION SEEN AS A MAJOR CAUSE OF ASTHMA

The Chairman of Respiri Limited, Mr Leon L’Huillier, recently presented at the prestigious 121 Tech Investment conference in Hong Kong and participated in an expert panel discussion on ‘Health Tech Trends in Asia’. It was attended by over 170 institutional investors and health technology companies drawn from Hong Kong, Mainland China and the wider East Asian region.

Conference participants acknowledged that air pollution in the huge markets of China and India is generally recognised as a major cause of asthma and other respiratory problems. These two markets present a major opportunity for Respiri’s wheeze monitoring products.

The company received strong interest from a number of major health industry participants and institutional investors including proposals of opportunities in Asia. The company will advance these proposals following the completion of the current fully-underwritten rights issue.

The delivery of sales and distribution agreements and collaborative technology partnerships is a key cornerstone of the company’s monetisation pathway.
